Seamen's Strike At Deadlock As Talks Continue

BY CANADIAN PRESS

The 12th day of the Canadian Seamen's Union strike against Great Lakes shipping passed with conferences continuing at Ottawa and an apparent lull in the excitement along the inland waterways today.

Shipowners' representatives conferred at Ottawa Wednesday with Federal Labor Minister Mitchell, and today the minister met union representatives. The union had presented proposals for settlement, based on union recognition and an eight-hour day, three-watch system, but no action was taken on this by the owners Wednesday.

The owners formulated some suggestions of their own and these were put before the union today, but Senator G. P. Campbell, counsel for the Dominion Marine Association representing most of the owners, said at Ottawa Wednesday night that no "final action towards a solution" could be taken by the operators until after a full meeting of companies at Toronto next Monday.

Apparently the meetings at Ottawa had led to some rumors of settlement because J. A. (Pat) Sullivan, C.S.U. president, from Ottawa wired strike headquarters at Toronto Wednesday night saying "rumors are being spread that the strike is settled." The C.S.U. executive wish to deny this. "I would request that all picket lines be doubled and under no conditions are they to accept rumors of strike settlement unless they hear officially from me."

The picket lines remained tense but quiet all along the great inland waterways Wednesday. At Sarnia, where the Canada Steamship Lines passenger ship Ortonic docked Tuesday night, union pickets announced arrangements had been made to allow waitresses and catering department employees to return to the ship.

Labor Group Asks Violence Stopped

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Federation of Labor today called on Labor Minister Mitchell to enforce laws regarding peaceful picketing and condemned what it called "brutal attacks on free Canadian workers" by striking members of the Canadian Seamen's Union as talks aimed at settlement of the 12-day-old shipping strike continued in Ottawa.

The Canadian Federation of Labor is a nation-wide federation of Canadian labor unions. It is not affiliated with any U.S. labor groups as are the Canadian Congress of Labor and the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, the other big labor organizations.

"The weakness of the Federal-Labor Minister will be discussed at a forthcoming conference of the federation to be held in Toronto," said Ernest Smith, general representative of the federation in Toronto.

Orlando, Veteran Of Versailles, May Be First President Of Italy

ROME (AP)—Grizzled, 86-year-old Victor Emmanuel Orlando won wide mention today as a likely compromise candidate for first President of Italy's new republic. Meanwhile Italy awaited formal proclamation of the end of the monarchy.

Orlando, only survivor of the Big Four of Versailles, was being proposed, political observers said, because as a Sicilian he would be able to repair the schism shown at the polls between the industrial north—which favored the republic—and the south—which supported the House of Savoy.

It appeared likely, however, that Orlando would face powerful opposition from the Communists, third strongest party in last week-end's elections. Palmiro Togliatti, Minister of Justice and a Communist leader, declared in a final campaign speech that the Communists "never" would collaborate with Orlando, whose National Democratic Union ran fourth in the balloting.

Another "venerable old man" of Italian politics, 78-year-old Ivano Bonomi, who led two provisional governments during Italy's status as a co-belligerent, also was being suggested as a presidential candidate.

King Humbert, meanwhile, prepared to follow his father into exile, his brief reign ended under the crushing weight of nearly

Italians Financed British Fascists Letters Indicate

ROME (CP)—Home Secretary James Chuter Ede told the House of Commons today that Mussolini's Italian government subsidized Sir Oswald Mosley's British Union of Fascists for several years before the war.

Mr. Ede read portions of two letters to Mussolini from Count Dino Grandi, then Italian Ambassador in London, complaining that money paid to the black shirt leader "simply goes down the drain." The communications were said by the Home Secretary to have been captured from the Italians.

At his place of retirement in Berkshire today Mosley declared "this statement (of the Home Secretary) is categorically denied."

"I have no doubt that evidence on any subject now is available in alleged Italian archives at one pence a packet. I challenge the government to state how and when such funds were received."

Photo-Engraved Papers Issued As Strikes Go On In East, West

By CANADIAN PRESS
Pressmen of the Hamilton Spectator were temporarily barred from entering the plant today in the first picket-line incident of the week-old newspaper strike.

The pressmen entered the building after the picket line of striking printers, reinforced by members of the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.), had been moved to the edge of the sidewalk by police. Later the pressmen, members of the International Printing Pressmen's and Assistants' Union (A.F.L.), told the strikers they felt bound to honor their contract with the Spectator and were told by the strikers the paper would not be allowed to publish.

Meanwhile plans to issue went ahead in Hamilton, Ottawa, where the Citizen issued its first strike edition Wednesday, Edmonton and Vancouver, where Province printers went on strike Wednesday night. In Edmonton the Journal and the Bulletin planned to continue their joint edition and the Citizen planned a four-page edition, like Wednesday's.

The top floors will be converted for office space with work to start about July 1," Mr. Alton said. "The building was erected originally for offices, but during the war the top floors were used for sleeping rooms."

When alterations are complete, Mr. Alton acted both for vendor and purchaser.

Ground floor of the building contains the Cave Printing Company while the two upper floors have been used as a rooming house.

Saws instead of the previous gasoline-powered circular saw, and installing an extra gang-saw like the one shown above to saw laths, the former chief stoker not only is maintaining himself and producing much needed laths for construction of veterans' homes, but hopes soon to employ two or three other veterans.

When alterations are complete, Mr. Carr believes he can produce 150 bundles of laths a day.

Yates Street Block Sold For $15,000

Real estate activity on Yates Street continues with announcement today by J. B. Alton of Johnson & Co. Ltd. realtors, of the purchase of the three-story red brick Lewis Block at 566 Yates, by O. J. Arthur, for a sum in the neighborhood of $15,000.

The building erected before the turn of the century and purchased from Mrs. Eva Levy, has 22-foot frontage on Yates and is 120-feet deep. It adjoins the Ideal Hotel, which was sold Wednesday.

Ground floor of the building contains the Cave Printing Company while the two upper floors have been used as a rooming house.

The top floors will be reconverted for office space with work to start about July 1," Mr. Alton said. "The building was erected originally for offices, but during the war the top floors were used for sleeping rooms."

Masters, Mates Of Princesses Get 8-Hour Day

A collective bargaining agreement was signed here today by the C.P.R.'s B.C. Coast Service and the Canadian Merchant Service Guild (Inc.) providing for an eight-hour day and pay boosts for 70 masters and mates aboard "Princess" and other C.P.R. ships in coastwise service.

Announcement that the contract had been signed was made by Capt. J. Hamilton, marine superintendent, who signed for the company, and by G. F. Bullock, secretary, who signed for the guild along with Capt. G. O. Hughes, D. F. Reynolds, A. D. Appleyard and M. Selbie, members of the company committee of the guild.

Mr. Bullock said the contract, the result of several months of negotiations, provided an eight-hour day for the first time and that pay boosts would be made retroactive to April 15, 1945.

The Canadian Navigators' Federation, an organization of masters and mates in eastern Canada, is affiliated with the Canadian Merchant Service Guild, said Mr. Bullock, who added that the guild was also affiliated with the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and the Officers' Merchant Navy Federation, an organization embracing marine officers in all nations of the British Commonwealth.

Capt. J. S. Dennis, national president of the guild, is at present at Seattle assisting in making arrangements for the Maritime conference to be held there this month. He is one of the Canadian delegates to the conference.

Col. Tobin, Vancouver, New C.M.A. President

TORONTO (CP)—Col. H. S. Tobin, Vancouver industrialist, today was elected president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, succeeding G. Blair Gordon of Montreal.

Striking International Woodworkers of America here today were planning to dig in for a prolonged holiday following the union's formal rejection Wednesday afternoon of the strike settlement plan devised by Chief Justice Gordon Sloan.

Developments during the last 24 hours included:

1. Announcement by provincial Labor Minister George S. Pearson that it may be necessary for the Dominion government to take over the box shook industry to save the Okanagan fruit crops.

2. Flat rejection by the operators of the request of Harold Pritchett, district president of the I.W.A., that negotiations be resumed.

3. Continuation of long-distance telephone conversations between Mr. Pearson, Chief Justice Sloan and Dominion Labor Minister Humphrey Mitchell.

Mr. Pearson indicated he was not sure what the next move to settle the dispute which has involved 35,000 logging and sawmill workers through the province would be.

"Certainly we'll either have to starve or get into production soon," said Mr. Pearson. "I doubt if there will be any development today."

"The strike has been on for three weeks now and we are right back at the beginning, but the break may come at any moment. It is difficult to say."

Chief Justice Sloan indicated he might make a statement later in the day.

CAMPAIGN FOR SUPPORT

While officers of Victoria Local 1-118 of the I.W.A. did not give details they suggested the campaign to secure public support for the strikers would be intensified now the Sloan negotiations had failed. They indicated that the public had never been as realistic about the length of the strike as the strikers.

Officers of the local did not care to express their opinion on how long the strike would last but indicated it would be until the union had won its demands.

EXAMINING SITUATION

Mr. Pearson said the B.C. government had not yet asked Ottawa to take over the interior box-making plants, but he said the best men available were either on their way or actually in the Okanagan area at present examining the situation.

"If it can be shown that continuation of this strike situation will mean inevitable severe loss to the fruit growers and reduction of shipments to Great Britain, such a step may be necessary," he said.

The message from the I.W.A. district council meeting in Vancouver Wednesday morning, sent to Chief Justice Sloan Wednesday afternoon, reads as follows:

"Seventy-four delegates, representing 14 locals of District No. 1, International Woodworkers of America, after hearing reports from all locals, unanimously rejected by a roll-call vote your recommendations as unacceptable to our membership."

"Your 15-cent proposal will not sufficiently offset the rising cost of living and proposed shorter work week. Your 44-hour week proposal likewise will not provide jobs for veterans and unemployed war workers, while your proposals on the voluntary cable check-off, lifted from our

Chiang Issues Cease Fire Order In North China

NANKING (AP)—Chiang Kai-shek today issued a cease-fire order calling a 15-day halt in the long, bloody civil conflict in Manchuria.

The truce, effective tomorrow, is expected to clear the way to permanent settlement of differences between the Chinese government and the Communists.

"I am issuing orders to my armies to hold all advances, attacks and pursuits for a period of 15 days from noon Friday, June 7," the generalissimo announced.

"Doing this gives the Communist Party an opportunity to demonstrate its good faith and intention of carrying out the agreement previously signed. In taking this action, the government in no way prejudices its right under the Sino-Soviet treaty to recover Manchurian sovereignty."

The previous agreement was a January political-military truce, since violated by both sides.

Chiang stipulated that the following matters must be settled within the 15-day period: Arrangements governing complete termination of hostilities in Manchuria; arrangements and time schedules for the complete restoration of communications in China; a definite basis for implementing the Feb. 23 agreement for demobilization, reorganization and integration of China's armed forces.

Air Organization Locates In Canada

MONTREAL (CP)—The general assembly of the Provisional International Civil Air Organization voted today in favor of Canada as the permanent site for the organization.

P.I.C.A.O.'s temporary headquarters have been in Montreal, and it is unlikely any change will be made in the location.

Forty-one nations took part in the vote, with 27 supporting Canada, nine voting for France, four for Switzerland and one for China.

Weather Prophet Discombobulated

TORONTO (CP)—Rain drenched Toronto today as an early morning broadcaster gave a "weather clear" forecast issued several hours earlier by the weather bureau. A minute or so later listeners heard him amend the prediction.

"Someone has just telephoned to say it is raining where they are," he announced. "I've looked out of the window—and it's raining here, too."

Committee Planned By Labor Council On Price Controls

The Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council was urged Wednesday night by C. Marshall, delegate, to take steps along lines similar to those taken by the Vancouver Island Joint Labor Conference to maintain price controls.

The Vancouver Island Joint Labor Conference some time ago set up a committee to demand stricter control maintenance of price ceilings. The conference also planned publicity to seek support of this policy.

The Victoria council supported a resolution of the Calgary Trades and Labor Council demanding that the subsidy on milk be retained.

Although the delegates supported the Conquer Cancer Campaign with a contribution, it was their contention that if the Saskatchewan and Alberta governments were able to establish facilities for conquering this disease, British Columbia, considered one of the wealthiest provinces, should be able to do likewise. The council deplored the fact that the people had to be the first to institute steps to safeguard the welfare of the citizens.

The council decided to invite Harry Lundberg, president of the Seamen's International Union, to address it some time while he is on the coast to attend the I.L.O. conference in Seattle, starting today.

The council's request for an opportunity to inspect the schools of Greater Victoria has been granted by the board of school trustees.

H. Leinweber was seated as a delegate for the Victoria Mailers' Union, while I. F. Lydesley and R. Bentham were seated for the Automotive Workers' Union.

Committee Approves
St. Lawrence Seaway

WASHINGTON (AP)—The St. Lawrence seaway and power project, sought for more than a half-century, won approval Wednesday of the United States Senate foreign relations committee. There is little chance of Senate action at this session of Congress.

Chairman Tom Connally, an ardent opponent of the seaway, in announcing the committee's 14 to 7 approval, told reporters: "I don't think they can get it up in the Senate, and even if they do it won't be passed."

G. A. Hormel Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP)—George A. Hormel, 85, founder of the Hormel Packing Co., Austin, Minn., died Wednesday in hospital following a stroke.

Much Ado About $25

SHERMAN, Tex. (AP)—Seven lawyers, armed with 24 bulky legal documents, are engaged in a property suit here. A former owner was brought almost 300 miles from his present home in San Angelo. The property involved is an 18-inch strip of land in a residential section. It is valued at about $25.

SECRET VOTE ESSENTIAL

SINCERE FRIENDS OF LABOR IN THIS Province are obviously fast losing patience with a leader whose idea of a conference seems to be a meeting between two parties to a dispute at which the employers must grant his demands or suffer the consequences. What other interpretation can be placed on the conduct of Mr. Harold Pritchett, district president of the International Woodworkers of America, in view of the tactics he has pursued—ever since the workers in the forests and the sawmills downed tools three weeks ago?

If the people of British Columbia were somewhat confused by the dictatorial aura in which the provincial chief of the I.W.A. is now operating, the insulting letter he wrote to Chief Justice Sloan on Monday doubtless has opened their eyes and cleared their minds. For if there is one adjudicator, commissioner, mediator, conciliator—call him what you will—in whom the rank and file of the workers now on strike have absolute faith, it is this eminent jurist whose recent report on the province's great basic industry unquestionably stamps him as an authority on all phases of its problems.

It is because we know the average worker in this industry has reason to trust the wisdom and judgment of the Chief Justice that we are not in the least impressed by decisions—in this case the rejection of his proposals for a settlement of the strike—based on the disclosures of standing votes taken in meetings of the various locals of the I.W.A. Knowing as he does the domineering character of the controlling elements at headquarters, the imported disciplinary measures of which the public, too, has taken due cognizance, it is not likely the unwilling striker will lightly voice his disapproval of official action in open meeting.

We are nevertheless of the opinion that the majority have not abdicated their democratic privileges and are just as willing to accept their complementary responsibilities—not only to safeguard their dearly-bought rights, but also to share in the preservation of the provincial and national economy in which the fortunes of all the citizens, union and non-union, are inextricably involved. In other words, if it is found either undesirable or impossible to bring employers and employees together again, Mr. Pritchett and his officials at headquarters should forthwith call for a secret ballot so that the whole of the members of the I.W.A. can register their decision without fear.

Nobody denies the right of the worker to a square deal, an adequate wage for adequate labor; but what is cause for the goose is cause for the gander as well. And there is no promise of future industrial peace if the union member is to face the days ahead with the conviction that, if properly led, he would have won and preserved considerable advantages by his leaders' acceptance of Chief Justice Sloan's proposals. He has yet that chance.

RETIREES WITH HONORS

WHEN THE LATE PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT "consented" Mr. Edward R. Stettinius Jr. into the government service six years ago, some critics of the administration's domestic and foreign policy shook their heads in grave doubt. Probably a few of them remembered how in the dark days of 1916—when the shell shortage had shocked Britain—Mr. Lloyd George called numerous British industrialists into conference and asked their help; but he began by assuring them that he understood the wide gulf which separated the science of government from the science of business. He confessed he was an entire stranger to the latter; how could they assist him out of their knowledge of industrial technique? They soon found a way; he got the munitions.

Mr. Stettinius first became a national figure in the neighboring république by climbing to the top of the business ladder in such corporations as General Motors and United States Steel in the 1930's. He responded to the presidential invitation to enter the realm of government by accepting, first, membership on the National Defence Advisory Council, and, successively, posts as Priorities Director for the Office of Production Management, Administrator of the United States' multi-billion-dollar lend-lease program, Under-secretary of State, Secretary of State, and finally his country's first representative—with the rank of ambassador—to the United Nations, which, of course, he helped to create. How the political historian will assess his performance in the various roles to which he was assigned is immaterial; the fact that he abandoned a business career for the hurly-burly of public life, knowing from the day he started he would be fair game for both captious and honest critic, and that he made a success of it, too, will furnish its own commentary for the rising generation to consider as successful endeavor.

Perhaps Mr. Stettinius would be the first to confess that there have been times, from the deliberations at Dumbarton Oaks, as leader of the United States delegation at San Francisco, in London, and more recently as the occupant of his country's permanent seat on the Security Council, when he would have much preferred the atmosphere of the Board Room at the headquarters of United States Steel to the allegedly polite double-talk and manoeuvre of the international council chamber. He has nevertheless served his country well; his colleagues in the United Nations Organization and its subsidiary bodies will miss him. No doubt ill health has had something to do with the resignation which President Truman tried hard to persuade him to reconsider—without success.

A SERIOUSBLEMISH

THE FACT THAT BRITISH COLUMBIA, with its miles of indented coastline, rivers and lakes, carries the blemish of the highest drowning death rate in Canada may be understandable. A vast number of her citizens find their living or their recreation on the water. They are exposed to hazards that do not exist to the same extent in other provinces. It is inevitable that the sea will take its toll. But the figures announced by the Provincial Health Department in its current bulletin include a number of cases in which death from that cause might have been prevented.

That latter factor lays emphasis on a deficiency in the physical education program of schools here. No adequate provision is made to teach swimming as a part of the ordinary curriculum. The absence of a course in that department of P.T. work is difficult to understand in a community so closely identified with fishing, boating and other industries and pastimes which depend on the water. The statistics supplied by the Department of Health and the drowning tragedies reported at intervals in the press should induce the educational authorities to take action. It might be unwise to make swimming a compulsory subject for all students of a certain age—in view of the possible disabilities of some. But it would certainly seem sensible and beneficial to make a properly supervised course a preferential option for all—but those certified medically unfit to participate.

PERON AS PRESIDENT

IN ASSUMING THE PRESIDENCY OF Argentina, Colonel Peron finds himself enveloped in commitments made to those groups which gave him his majority in return for promises of exercising the strong arm of authority in their particular interests. These are already demanding the privileges they envisaged when, in order to win their support, the government—which Peron was the power behind the scenes—began carrying out policies designed to weaken the opposition of the so-called democrats. Special collections of funds levied to fill campaign coffers are one thing; but taxes imposed to maintain the administration in running order and generally benefit the national economy are quite another. The government, even before the Colonel actually takes office, seems to have found it necessary to squeeze sums standing to the credit of the insurance companies doing business in the Argentine. Presumably these concerns are to be nationalized and the savings of the people thus channelled into government revenue. Then, too, demands for higher wages and shorter hours seem to be troubling the administration.

Exactly how the new President is going to regard the United States proposals for hemispherical defence is uncertain. But as they suggest a co-ordination of strategy and armament between the nations involved, and under such methods Brazil, Uruguay and Paraguay might receive arms and ammunition to defend themselves against any policies contemplated by President Peron. In pursuit of raw materials for stimulation of his industrial enterprises, he may not have precisely the same point of view as Washington. His chief economic preoccupation will probably be to change a feudal civilization into an industrial one and raise the general standard of living without, at the same time, alienating the support of the army officers who regard him as their particular "patron."

IMPORTANT ACQUISITION

TO ALL CITIZENS OF THIS COMMUNITY who count culture an important element in the enjoyment of living, the exhibition of the late Emily Carr's art in the newly-opened Little Centre, established by the Federation of Canadian Artists, Vancouver Island Region, is an event of major importance. To those who understand the values of the distinguished Victorian's work, the selected examples offer a treat that will require little advertisement to draw them to the showroom. Among those less familiar with more important aspects of the medium in which the late Miss Carr gained eminence, the exhibition should prove a highly valuable educational factor. Through such showings the development of a higher appreciation for work of distinction will be stimulated. Those responsible for the acquisition of the Little Centre as well as for this attractive opening exhibition have earned the sincere thanks of the community. That sentiment may find its most tangible expression in public support through attendance at the exhibition.

STRENGTH IN SIMPLICITY

WHILE HIS FELLOW MEMBERS IN THE legal profession may find a hint of heresy in the remark of Mr. J. Pitcairn Hogg, K.C., to the effect that lengthy preambles to municipal by-laws constitute "a favorite trick of lawyers," there is much to be said for his advocacy of simpler forms. The very efforts of those who draft by-laws to be precise frequently render their product cloudy. Overabundance of legal language can hardly assist the layman in his observance. When he becomes involved in considerations of the responsibilities of "parties of the first part hereinbefore referred to as," etc., his appreciation of the spirit of the law tends to become confused. The definite and straightforward should be the aim in phrasing such documents.

Walter Lippmann

THE FRENCH ELECTIONS

THOUGH the Popular Republicans (the M.R.P.) have only a slender plurality in the French elections, the result is none the less of decisive practical importance. For if the Communists had obtained such a plurality in the popular vote and in the new Constituent Assembly, they would have demanded and have been conceded not only M. Thorez for Prime Minister but—what would have mattered even more—the appointment of the Minister of the Interior, who in France controls the police and administers the machinery of elections.

France, we must remember, must within the next seven months have another referendum on the constitution which the new Constituent Assembly will draft, and then, if that constitution is adopted, elections for the parliament of the permanent government.

THE NEXT French government, like all French governments since the liberation, will have to be a coalition of the three great popular parties—that is to say of the Popular Republicans, the Communists and the Socialists. With only 160 seats (on the latest returns) out of 522 in continental France, the Popular Republicans do not have anything like a majority. Even if they combined, which they almost surely would not and could not, with the small conservative parties, they would still be far short of a majority. Nor is a combination with the Socialists alone conceivable at the present moment. The Socialists could not and would not enter a combination which left the Communists outside, in the privileged and profitable and demagogic position of irresponsible critics.

A three-party government is, therefore, clearly indicated. This would seem to make it unlikely that General de Gaulle will now return to the post of Provisional President. For he resigned last winter because of his dissatisfaction with the deadlocks and compromises which are inherent in three-party government.

IN APPRAISING the significance of the elections we must bear in mind that the Popular Republicans are not by our current political standards or by prewar French standards a conservative party. The real conservatives were the Republican Party of Liberty (P.R.L.), and they will be a small minority (about 10 per cent) in the new Assembly.

The M.R.P. are conservatives in that they adhere to the democratic process which they hold to be not only consistent with but inherent in the Christian conception of the nature of man. That they are militant, not passive, believers they proved when they became the first organizers of the resistance to the Nazis, the first to oblige distinctly and sharply the idea of collaboration.

After the liberation, after the danger was over, they were joined by many who, though they did not share their views, were less afraid of them than they were of the Socialists and Communists. For this reason there were many observers who supposed that they would lose heavily in the election to the P.R.L., the party of the Conservatives. Probably they have lost some of their rightist elements. But it is plain that they have more than recovered their losses out of the great mass of the people.

THE DECLINE of Communists, or, more accurately, their failure to grow decisively stronger, signifies—I believe—that they no longer have anything to offer which the French people cannot get without at the same time sacrificing their liberties and their independence in foreign affairs. The Communists have no social program for the reconstruction of France which is more advanced or more radical than that which the M.R.P. and the Socialists offer. They have no monopoly of the collectivist program which a good three-quarters of the French nation regard as desirable, or at least necessary in the present condition of affairs.

All the Communists have to offer—apart from a political dictatorship which the French certainly do not want—is the promise of greater energy and determination and ruthlessness in carrying out the program which all three leading parties subscribe to.

THE EUROPEAN Communists today are a very different breed from what most Americans, thinking of their own Communists, imagine them to be. It is their energy and decisiveness, rather than their ideology, which has distinguished the European Communists among the popular parties which have risen since the end of the war. The French Communists, for example, are responsible for the remarkable performance of the French mining industry, and for the fact that the French working class has been striking and has accepted low real wages in order to increase production.

There is a moral in these elections. It is that democratic liberty, where it has really taken root, is not decadent or dying in Europe. We are underestimating its vitality, and we tend to forget that though it is a good thing—which it surely is—only the people of each country can preserve it. The democracies will preserve democracy. Where there is no democracy, it will take a long experience to develop democracy.

WHAT we can do is to preserve the peace, to see to it that Europe does not have to become a battlefield and to be mobilized and rent by civil war.

The less we fuss and fret, meddle and lecture, the better. The less we sponsor the parties we prefer, the better for them. We can contribute only embarrassment by supporting them. Our business is to concentrate on peace—on preserving what peace we have, on expanding it as best we can. In that peace, only in peace, can democracy and the liberties of men survive and flourish.

A Fair Compromise

The compromise suggested by Chief Justice Sloan seems an ingenuous and eminently fair one. If accepted it would give the union most of what it asked. It would not do serious damage to the employer either in the way of increased pay or conditions. Best of all, it would protect the interest of the public, which has had no protection during the strike, and would start again the streams of building material and fuel which have been dammed for three weeks.

Vancouver News-Herald

What Do the Lumber Workers Think?

As the Minister of Labor himself has said, it is doubtful if the public temper of this province will much longer tolerate this unnecessary tie-up. If the L.W.A. executive wants to hold any measure of public or labor confidence, it will either call off the strike at once or ask for a Labor Department scrutinizing to take a properly supervised poll of employee reaction to the Sloan recommendations. Straw votes or show-of-hand balloting at quickly called local meetings will not allay the growing suspicion that in this issue the union executive is pursuing a strike-for-strike-sake policy. Public opinion settles most prolonged strikes. The L.W.A. leaders should never ignore public support if they close and bar the door to this reasonable Sloan plan for settlement.

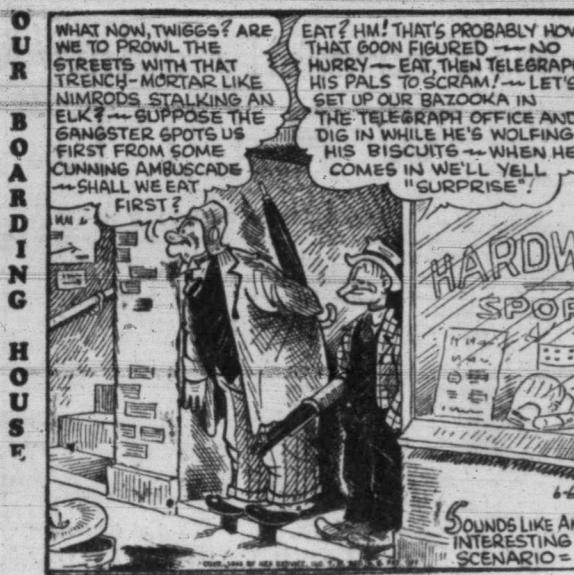

Vancouver Sun

End the Strike

The strike has gone on almost three weeks and, as Mr. Hart and Mr. Pearson point out, jeopardizes not only the housing situation and the shipment of food to starving peoples overseas, but also adversely affects the economic stability of the entire Dominion to some degree. What happens if His Lordship's solution is rejected by either side, or both? The strike may drag its disastrous course for weeks yet, and in the end—as is the way with so many labor disputes—the result must be a compromise which at best will be probably no better than what is offered. Wisdom dictates acceptance. Public opinion demands acceptance.

Representing 147 British Columbia Lumber Operators

Must Register For School By June 14

Registration date for grade one and pre-primary pupils in the Greater Victoria district will close June 14, and parents may register children at the nearest school between 3 and 4 p.m. any school day up to this date, John Gough, municipal inspector of schools said today.

Only exception to this is Wilfords School, where beginners are to be registered June 17 at 1:30.

Only children who will be six before Dec. 31, 1946, are eligible to enter Grade one, and children must be five before this date to enter the pre-primary classes.

Eight kindergartens will be in operation during the 1946-47 school year at Oaklands, Sir James Douglas, Spring Ridge School, North Ward, Margaret Jenkins, Victoria West, Old Oak Bay High and Cloverdale schools.

B.C. Electric Offers 3-Cent General Boost

Details of the company's offer for a collective bargaining agreement between the B.C. Electric Railway Co. Ltd. and its 2,800 employees in Victoria and Vancouver as represented by the Street Railways Association, were released today by A. E. Grauer, president of the B.C. E.R. The tram operators and other unionized employees of the company will vote on the proposals Friday.

Mr. Grauer said the firm was offering a three-year collective agreement based on a three cent an hour wage increase in all work categories as a forerunner of a 10-year plan designed to give the men a 40-hour week, pensions and hospitalization benefits. The three-year plan includes a Medical Services Association plan to cover medical, surgical and maternity services, with contributions from employees.

For the third year of the agreement a 44-hour week with no reduction in take-home pay would be adopted. Days off would be allowed "extras."

Registered Nurses Set Scale Of Fees

As a result of a comprehensive study conducted early in the spring, a revised private duty nurses' fee schedule was drawn up and was approved at the annual meeting of the Registered Nurses' Association. In this schedule, which goes into effect on July 1, the fee for eight-hour service is increased to $6.50, for 12-hour service to $9.50 and for resident service to $11. Provisions are made for group nursing—that is, two or more patients—and for hourly nursing.

Increased Grants Not Coming Soon

VANCOUVER (CP) — More than 1,000 student veterans at the University of British Columbia heard Prof. S. N. F. Chant, former director of rehabilitation in the Department of Veterans' Affairs at Ottawa, tell how increased grants would possibly be slow in coming.

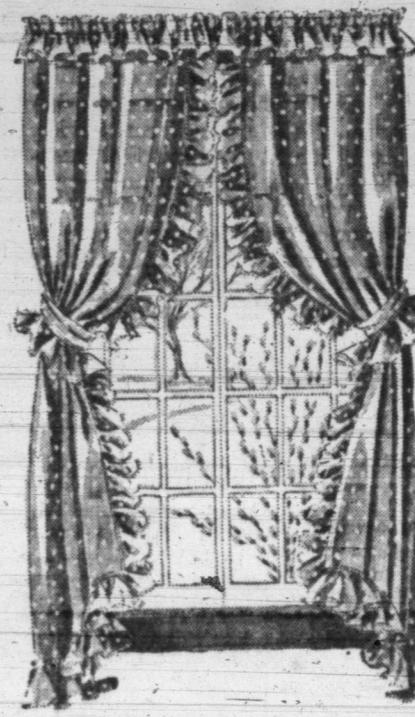

The students were well advised to "keep an eye on Dominion-Provincial relations," Prof. Chant warned. "Because until that situation is cleared up the Dominion government will be loath to make increased grants of any kind."

Other difficulties in the way of the vets' campaign, he said, included the complexity of amending the rehabilitation act to allow benefits to only one group coupled with the government's stand that benefits were to be "grants-in-aid" only.

Noted Pianist

Married Saturday

The marriage of Mrs. Margaret McFarlane and Ellison Quale took place Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Willcox, Hollywood Crescent.

Retiring in 1941 from the concert stage after a successful career as a pianist, the bride is well known in music circles both on this continent and in Europe. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Hugh A. McLeod. Given away by C. S. Crosby of Vancouver, the bride was charming in a gown of turquoise blue with white accessories and carrying a bouquet of red roses. Her bridesmaid, Miss Gladys Revercomb, chose crushed strawberry with lavender accessories and carried sweetheart roses and sweet peas. The groom was supported by W. L. Heard of Ocean Park, B.C.

At the reception following the ceremony, the young couple were assisted in receiving the guests by Mrs. J. Quale, mother of the groom, and Mrs. C. Crosby of Vancouver. Mr. Heard proposed the "toast to the bride."

For a mainland honeymoon the bride donned a tailored black coat over her wedding ensemble with corsage bouquet of gardenias.

Y.W.C.A. Council Holds Closing Banquet

The Girls' Interclub Council of the Y.W.C.A. held their closing banquet Tuesday evening at the "Y."

Miss Evelyn Rhodes presided. Miss A. J. Fawcett, honorary member of the Y.W.C.A., asked the blessing. Following the supper Dr. Olga Jardine, president of the Y.W.C.A. board, accepted the gift of a silver tea service presented to the Y.W.C.A. by members of the Residence Girls' Club. Mrs. L. Curtis awarded the silver cup to the Omphalos and the Residence Girls' clubs for most attractive table decoration. The framed creed was given to the Y. Ens and the Chateaine Club for best attendance.

Miss Nancy Kyle, June bride-elect, was feted Monday evening when Miss Robbie Patterson held a miscellaneous shower at her home, 218 Vancouver Street. Those present were Mesdames John Kyle, R. H. Sloan Statement Outlines Details Of Strike Talks

Text of a statement, issued by Chief Justice Gordon McG. Sloan late Wednesday following formal notification by the International Woodworkers of America that his strike settlement plan had been rejected:

"In view of the statements contained in a letter addressed to me by Mr. Pritchett and which was published in the newspapers of yesterday's date, it is I think necessary for me to review the situation in order to remove any misunderstanding that might result from Mr. Pritchett's published comments.

"Throughout the period of the negotiation I was acting at the request of the Dominion government as an intermediary endeavoring to reconcile the differences between the employers and the union. I met the union officials in one room and the representatives of industry in another and had many long discussions with each side.

"During these discussions I was working for and with both sides without disclosing my personal views on the questions in issue.

"On Saturday morning, the outline the union views on its demands for a 25-cents-an-hour wage increase, the 40-hour week, union security and check-off. He then called two expert economists Messrs Bjarnson and Marcuse to submit statistical and other data in support of his case. Mr. Bjarnson is a honor graduate of the U.B.C. in economics with post graduate study at Queens University and Mr. Marcuse is a honor graduate of Queens University in economics. Both of these gentlemen filed extensive briefs on wages, working hours and union security and gave evidence thereon extending over many pages of transcript. Their presentation was scholarly and able and covered a wide range of discussion on all issues in dispute.

Mr. Pritchett also called as a witness Mr. George Brown, international organizer of the I.W.A.

FILED STATISTICS

"Mr. C. L. McAlpine, K.C., then on behalf of the employer group filed statistical material and called the following witnesses to present the views of industry, i.e., Messrs A. P. Foster, J. H. Bloedel, R. V. Stuart, John Billings, J. R. Mills, R. J. Filberg and Aird Flanagan.

"Both sides then addressed argument to me based on the testimony adduced.

"Mr. Pritchett's final comment was to express appreciation for the fair and impartial manner in which the hearing had been conducted.

"After consideration of the submissions of both sides, I formulated recommendations in which in the public interest I endeavoured to steer a middle course between the extreme and irreconcilable views of the disputing parties—always bearing in mind that I had no power to bind either side to their acceptance.

"The public knows the gist of my recommendations. Industry has accepted and the union—as it has a perfect right to do—has rejected them."

'Get On With Job' Acting Mayor Urges Both Strikers, Operators

Disappointment that the International Woodworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) had rejected the strike "settlement plan" of Chief Justice Gordon Sloan, was expressed here Wednesday night, by Acting Mayor Ed Williams, who called on both sides to "settle this problem right now and get on with the job."

Text of the acting mayor's statement follows:

I consider it very regrettable that, while the operators have accepted, the I.W.A. (whose members have been on strike for the past three weeks) should have turned down the settlement plan proposed by Hon. Chief Justice Sloan.

In representations made before the City Council at its last meeting, a delegation (purportedly representing all recognized trade unions of Greater Victoria) complained "that due to failure of the proper authorities to recognize the needs of thousands of people in this province our building program, always hampered by shortages of material, is now practically at a standstill, with many good building trades mechanics being thrown out of employment. Many of these men are veterans, as are many of the I.W.A. We feel it to be a serious reflection on both our provincial and federal governments that they have failed to meet this situation—with the promptness and consideration that it deserves. It now appears that "the proper authorities" have indeed "recognized the needs of thousands of people in this province" by bringing in a compromise settlement, which, if accepted by the operators and the I.W.A., would result in the immediate return to normalcy of this prime industry.

A statement by T. A. Michell,

president of the Victoria Labor

Council, at the above-mentioned meeting, is pertinent. It was to the effect that the I.W.A. had offered to scale its demand down to 18 cents-an-hour increase, 40-hour week, and submit the rest to arbitration provided the result be binding on both parties.

Here is an anomaly: They, themselves, while desiring the results of arbitration in one instance to be binding. In another instance (where both parties are dealt with in a democratic and not a dictatorial manner), do not choose to accept the findings of the arbitrator. It is true, the I.W.A. did not get all they were after. But did the operators?

The proceedings of the arbitration have been carried on in a legal manner. Both sides have been considered. The result has been a compromise offer to both sides. I say, both sides should settle this problem right now and get on with the job.

How long can the industrialists, manufacturers, businessmen and citizens of Victoria generally be expected to put up with the present serious situation as it affects housing, with all its allied trades and demands for manufacturing

(particularly at this time of year when the need is most acute), and other industrial and commercial requirements? There are too many serious factors involved to tie up Canada's chief industry in this way.

I must again express my keen disappointment that the union should have turned down what I believe the general public considers a fair compromise.

make union security when requested by a clear majority of workers and respect for I.W.A. picket lines.

Victoria Delegates To Debate Strike At Vancouver Meeting

Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council will send delegates to a meeting of the Vancouver, New Westminster and District Trades and Labor Council at which policy of A.F.L. unions in the strike of the International Woodworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) will be discussed.

This decision to send delegates to the Vancouver meeting followed an address by A. Douglas of the I.W.A. and a discussion which brought out clashing opinions on whether or not the I.W.A. should have accepted the strike settlement plan of Chief Justice Gordon McG. Sloan.

FOR ALL INDUSTRIES'

Had the Chief Justice recommended a 25-cent-an-hour wage increase and 40-hour week, and full union security—all the major demands of the I.W.A.—the woodworkers could not accept the agreement because of the inclusion of a no-strike clause, said Mr. Douglas. He added that the I.W.A.'s demands were basic for all industries in the future and the fight of the I.W.A. was that of all workers.

He said the 15-cent-an-hour increase would give the workers approximately the same take-home pay as at the present time. Representing the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council at the Vancouver meeting which is to be held next Friday will be A. P. Rayment, council president, who was instructed to support the I.W.A. in accordance with the policy laid down in the past.

This policy included support in principle of the 40-hour week, support in seeking wage adjustments, condemnation of the federal government for neglecting to

The U.S. cruiser Astoria, which was to have visited Victoria on June 15 with delegates from the International Maritime Conference at Seattle, will not come here as delegates wish to attend the international peace treaty ceremony at Blaine, Wash., which is being held the same day according to word received here by Troy L. Perkins, U.S. consul, from Capt. A. M. Peabody, Black Ball Ferry Line, who was in charge of arrangements.

Business Prices High, Says Okell

Warning war veterans that prices for businesses were inflated at present, S. H. Okell, assistant district administrator of the Department of Veterans' Affairs, said Wednesday the Re-establishment Credit Advisory Committee of the department was worried about veterans paying too much for businesses and goodwill.

Mr. Okell urged that all veterans thinking of re-establishment credit to enter business confer first with the re-establishment credit branch. He said that in many cases the committee had been able to get better deals for veterans and save them money.

The committee approved 15 applications for use of the credit to enter business on Wednesday. Businesses were commercial fishing projects in Victoria and Campbell River, fuel businesses in Duncan, Nanaimo and Victoria, stores at Parksville and Salt Spring Island, a cement contracting business at Port Alberni and a partnership for sale of fire prevention equipment in Victoria.

LANGFORD — Langford Tennis Club will open their courts Sunday afternoon and any persons wishing to join the club will be welcomed. Tea will be served.

Kush No. 1 Relief Pitcher In Majors

Emil Kush, a local boy from Chicago's north side, who waited nine long years to make a boyhood dream come true, now rivals Earl Johnson of Boston Red Sox as the No. 1 relief pitcher in the major leagues.

Not since Jack Russell, whose relief work helped the Chicago Cubs win the 1938 National League pennant, have the Brains boasted such a brilliant rescue artist as this 29-year-old right-hander.

Signed to a Cub contract in 1937 at 20, Kush spent five years with Chicago farm clubs before going on display at Wrigley Field, where he often had worked as a peanut and pop vendor. Just when it seemed his ambition was realized, he entered the navy.

The Brooks downed the strike-threatened Bucs, 5 to 3. Kirby Higbe was credited with his fourth victory, but had to leave the game in the seventh when he pulled a back muscle.

Pinch hitter Buster Adams singled with the bases loaded in the ninth to give the Cards a 2 to 1 edge over Boston Braves.

New York Yankees reduced the American League lead of Boston Red Sox to 6½ games with a 9 to 6 decision over Chicago White Sox. Although held to seven hits, the New Yorkers received 15 walks and took advantage of six White Sox errors. Thirty-five players saw action as the Red Sox waged an 8 to 8 tie with St. Louis Browns. The game lasted three hours and 29 minutes and went 12 innings before it was called on account of darkness.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills

"Keeping my big, hungry St. Bernard will fed might have been very expensive, if I hadn't discovered Gro-Pup. It certainly helps him thrive . . . and how he loves this healthful, low-cost food! For pep and economy, Gro-Pup is an excellent choice for large dogs."

(Signed) Mr. John McDonald,
50 Parkdale North,
Hamilton, Ontario.

Why breeders feed Gro-Pup

BREEDERS KNOW it is not safe to try to raise dogs on "leftovers" alone. Dogs must have a properly balanced diet that gives them everything they need for strong bones, sound teeth, and a beautiful coat. That's why breeders feed Gro-Pup.

IT'S A PROPERLY BALANCED DIET to keep dogs of all ages, sizes and breeds at their natural best. It is easily digestible. It contains every vitamin and mineral dogs are known to need for sturdy growth and vigour.

MONEY SAVING: Gro-Pup costs about ½ the price of many other brands of dog food.

ECONOMICAL: A 2-lb. box of Gro-Pup Cubes feeds an average 15-lb. dog a week.

GET IT at grocers or pet shops in the 2-lb. box of cubes or in the new 5-lb. bag of meal . . . and at feed stores in either cube or meal form in bulk up to 100 pounds.

Rails Lead Selective Comeback Hedley Mascot Up, Grain

NEW YORK (AP) — Railway stocks, attracting bids on the idea they had been oversold, led a selective comeback in today's market although many leaders continued to give ground. Railings were among the lightest of the last month. Better performers included N.Y. Central, Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, Boeing, American Telephone, American Can, DuPont, American Woolen, Texas Co., and American Water Works.

Fractional gains and losses were about evenly divided among Canadian issues at noon. On the plus side were Canadian Pacific, up 1 1/2, and Dome Mines, also 1 1/2 higher.

Dow Jones averages closed today as follows:
30 industrials 269.50, off .28
20 rails 66.18, up .03
15 utilities 43.15, up .05
65 stocks 78.09, off .04
Total sales, 950,000.
